

A computer technician installs repairs and services computers and a range of other office machines.

However, often the technician will also work with networks, websites, software and hardware – basically anything computer!

Some of the things you might do as a computer technician include:

- inspect and repair computers to prevent breakdowns
- work with computer users to teach and improve computer use
- test and replace faulty parts
- find faults in electrical and electronic machines using special
- testing to ensure all equipment works correctly
- maintain records of repairs and scheduled testing

You will be....

- motivated by electrical, electronic and mechanical machines
- able to solve practical problems
- have good eyesight and normal colour vision
- able to communicate with a wide range of people
- able to manage your time and organize yourself

Education & Training

You can enter this career with an Apprenticeship or with a certificate, diploma or degree course.

Find more information at:

Manufacturing Skills Australia: www.mskills.com.au

ElectroComms Skills Council: www.ee-oz.com.au

VICTEC Skills Centre: www.victech.com.au